This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.:
REFORMED CHURCH PUBLICATION BOARD,

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1884, by the
REFORMED CHURCH PUBLICATION BOARD,
In the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

WESTCOTT & THOMSON,
Stereotypers and Electrotypers, Philada.

PREFACE.

In undertaking the preparation of a Tune-book that should meet the wants of the congregations using HYMNS FOR THE REFORMED CHURCH, the writer became convinced that it might be made to satisfy the wants of a still larger field. As the metres used in that book cover almost all those employed in modern hymnology, a collection of tunes, primarily intended to satisfy its requirements, could readily be made available by all choirs in their quest for tunes of an earnest, devotional character.

This collection has been derived from foreign and domestic sources, and, although concessions in a few instances have been made to requests for the retention of favorite tunes, as a general rule tunes that are found in almost all other American collections have been omitted, and in their stead, others inserted which seemed to claim like recognition on the score of intrinsic merit and special adaptation. To Prof. Henry Schwing the harmonization, in whole or in part, of every tune is due, and it is believed that this will be found to satisfy the reasonable criticism of those who have made a study of sacred music. While the melody has been invariably given to the soprano, the harmony has been so treated as to give the other parts something to do, which would justify study and be pleasing to the singer.

The "Index of First Lines," placed at the end of the book, indicates the tune which, in the judgment of the Editor, is adapted to each hymn in HYMNS FOR THE REFORMED CHURCH. In the preparation of this, the Editor has had the assistance of the excellent taste and intimate acquaintance with sacred music of Miss Jane Zacharias, to whom he desires to express his thanks for her valuable services. It is hoped that this index may be helpful to choir-leaders in the performance of their duties.

LEWIS H. STEINER.

OCTOBER 1, 1884.

HINTS TO CHOIRS AND ORGANISTS.

1. THE selection of tunes which shall, as it were, perfect the meaning of the sacred poet, is of vital importance to effective singing. Words and music should be so wedded that each may supplement the other.

2. As expression in vocal music is primarily derived from the significance of the words, it necessarily follows that all forms of poetry, from the most jubilant to the most plaintive, demand suitable musical companionship; i. e., joyful words should be sung to cheerful music, those which are plaintive to sad and mournful strains, etc., etc.

3. Hymns beginning with a long or accented syllable require tunes that begin with a down-beat, while those with a short or unaccented syllable need tunes beginning with an up-beat.

4. The movement and tone-volume should vary in accordance with the character of the words, and hence different stanzas, or even different lines of the same stanza, may often make very different demands on the mode of rendering the music furnished for their expression.

5. As singing is an important part of divine worship, choirs and even congregations should not begrudge the time required to practise the very words of the hymn along with the tune selected to accompany it, so that, by intimate acquaintance with both, they may use them to general as well as personal edification.

6. On organs without pedals, the tunes should be played in close harmony; i. e., the three parts with the right hand and the bass in octaves with the left. This will sometimes necessitate playing the tenor an octave higher than written, but a little practise will soon enable inexperienced players to do this with comparative ease. Should the organist, however, prefer to play two parts with each hand, it will sometimes be necessary to play the bass an octave higher than it is written, in order to bring it within the reach of the hand.

They through the fields of	Paradise that roam,	The blessèd ones, repeat through	that bright home,

Ye clouds, that on-ward sweep! Ye winds on . . .	pin - ions light!	Ye thunders, ech-oing loud and deep. Ye light-nings	wild - ly bright!
Ye floods and ocean billows! Ye storms and . . .	win - ter snow!	Ye days of cloud-less beauty! Hoar frost and	sum - mer glow!
First let the birds, with painted . .	plum - age gay,	Exalt their great Creator's . . .	praise, and say
Then let the beasts of earth, with . .	vary - ing strain,	Join in creation's hymn, and . .	cry a - gain
Here let the moun-tains thunder forth so- - -	nor - - ous,	Alle - - -	lu - - ia!
Thou jubilant abyss of	o - cean, cry	Alle - - -	lu - - ia!
To God, who all cre-	a - tion made,	The frequent hymn be . . .	du - ly paid:
This is the strain, the eternal strain, the Lord of . .	all things loves:	Alle - - -	lu - - ia!
Wherefore we sing, both heart and voice a- - -	wak - - ing;	Alle - - -	lu - - ia!
Now from all men .	be out - poured	Alleluia	to the Lord;

120	The solemn season calls us now....	58
415	The Son of Man shall come	85
199	The strain upraise of joy and praise	216
445	The things of the earth in the earth let us lay	198
456	The trump shall sound and in the clouds	45
437	The voice that breathed o'er Eden.	136
318	The whole creation groans and waits	67
422	The world is very evil	139
309	Thine forever! God of love	119
167	This is My Body, which is given for you	191
452	This stone to Thee in faith we lay.	32
245	Thou art gone up on high	92
72	Thou art the Way; to Thee alone.	65
81	Thou hidden source of calm repose.	34
423	Thou Judge of quick and dead	92
